

What do you do if...

1. A coach approaches you in the middle of a match and says that his player is complaining that his opponent is foot faulting
2. ~~X~~ The team match is tied at 2-2 and there is only one match remaining on court
3. You are standing at the net post observing a match. The receiver calls a serve long. You are certain the serve was good and say "Correction, the serve was good". The receiver says OK, replay the point, first serve
4. A ball from an adjacent court rolls on the court between the first and second serve. The server clears the ball and claims a first serve
5. A server in doubles match calls you to the court claiming that the receiver's partner is standing with one foot in the service box and with his racquet leaning into the box where the server is attempting to serve
6. A server in doubles calls you to the court complaining that the receiver's partner is jumping in and out of the service box while he is in his service motion
7. After completing a first set tiebreak, the players call you over and ask 1) if they should switch sides of the net and 2) who serves next
8. When checking the challenge match sheet before the match, you notice that the back half of the form is missing
9. When players line up for introductions, they are all in the correct uniforms. However, half way through the match you notice one player has changed to a different shirt. You approach him at the changeover and he explains he had soaked through his team shirt and changed into a dry one
10. You hear a player several courts away shout "Jesus Christ, I really suck"
11. A coach informs you that the crowd is upsetting his player with their excessive celebration whenever his opponent gets a point, even due to errors & double-faults
12. The match is tied 2-2 and you are on-court observing the last match. The players split sets, you immediately start your stopwatch to time the 10 minute break and you advise the players that they have up to a 10 minute break. One player returns after 8 minutes and the other returns after 15 minutes and 10 seconds